MEMS-based Fiber Optics Components

- Dynamic MEMS components for fiber optics networks
- MEMS chips used in products including:
  - Variable optical attenuator
  - Dynamic gain equalizer
- R&D prototypes fabricated at Stanford NNUN facility
- Technology successfully transferred to commercial foundry
- In production as of Q3 2001

User: Ben Chui, LIGHTCONNECT, Inc.
NNUN Site: Stanford University

Variable optical attenuator